Use specific reasons and details to support your choice.

Sample Answer:

The teaching method and quality of education are the two most important factors in the education sector and I do believe the gift of money received by the school, will be spent on these two purposes. I also believe that my school must keep an eye at the teacher-student ratio and on receiving an amount the management will work on it so that understanding what is taught is accurate by hiring skilled teachers.

Firstly, a skilled teacher is the need of any educational institution and it is directly related to the quality of teaching. Specifically, students often have different learning methods – the teachers have to understand it and help them as much as possible. Moreover, a proper teacher must be able to use the state-of-the-art method to ensure students learn faster. For instance, in high school, my classmate and I struggled with math because of an existing math teacher. Later teachers altered and we enhanced our grade to a great extent.

Secondly, I think modern teaching methods and technologies can be another field where the amount can be spent. I believe that these can make the students more interested in the bookish topics and they can learn the tough topics perfectly. Now, the learning is proper which will make an enhancement their grade. Thus, the school can actually be popular among other schools. For example, as above mentioned math tutor interacted with each student and asked them to participate in some competitive activities. Therefore, my school was one of the best among others. Spending the amount on the improvement of the teaching methods I believe will be really helpful. Along with this, modern smart technologies will also be good to make the classes lively.

To sum it up, I would like to spend the money on recruiting skilled teachers and on upgrading the teaching methods. The prime focus of an educational institution must be quality education and both the updation will result in better education that makes the school more popular.
