[You will hear a news report. Listen carefully and answer the following question.]

Transcript:

News Reporter: Good morning. In today's headlines, scientists have made a groundbreaking discovery in the field of astronomy. A new exoplanet, located in the habitable zone of its star, has been identified. This discovery opens up new possibilities for the search for extraterrestrial life. Dr. Rodriguez, the lead researcher, spoke about the significance of this finding.

Dr. Rodriguez: The discovery of this exoplanet is a major milestone in our quest to understand the potential for life beyond Earth. Its location in the habitable zone means it has conditions suitable for liquid water, a key ingredient for life as we know it.

News Reporter: The scientific community is abuzz with excitement over this development. Further observations will be conducted to gather more information about the exoplanet's atmosphere and composition.
