Global leaders start here

The Australian National University (ANU) welcomes the brightest minds from Australia and around the world.

When you study with us, you'll join a diverse community of talented students and learn alongside world-leading academics.

You'll grow your knowledge in classrooms with one of Australia's best teacher-to-student ratios and access the unmatched resources and support of a national institution.*

Join the safe and diverse community at Australia's number one university in the heart of Canberra, Australia's global capital city. **

How to apply

- Submit your application through our online application portal. Simply search for your preferred program in the below list, and click on Apply.
- To find out if additional requirements apply, search our programs and courses catalogue.
- You can only apply for a single program, so check our programs and courses catalogue to choose the best degree for you.
- To be considered for an offer, you must meet the prerequisite and cognate requirements for your preferred program, as well as the English language requirements.
- Your application will be ranked against other candidates applying for the same program. Learn more about the ANU assessment process.
- If you are completing an Australian Year 12, the International Baccalaureate or the NCEA Level 3, you should submit your application through the Universities Admissions Centre (UAC). You can find a full list of ANU undergraduate programs and application deadlines on the UAC website.
 - ANU participates in UAC offer rounds throughout the year in September, October, November, December and January.
 - UAC application fees apply. You will need to pay the application fee to UAC and the amount will depend on when you apply to ANU. You can find more information about the UAC application fees here.
